REMOTE SOUNDING OF ATMOSPHERES - Remote Sounding Of Atmospheres (FREE)
Atmospheric sounding or atmospheric profiling is a measurement of vertical distribution of physical properties of the atmospheric column such as pressure, temperature, wind speed and wind direction (thus deriving wind shear), liquid water content, ozone concentration, pollution, and other properties. Such measurements are performed in a variety of ways including remote sensing and in situ ... - Fri, 19 Apr 2019 10:38:00 GMT Dr. James E. Introduction. Photosynthesis supplies all of the organic compounds and most of the energy necessary for life on Earth, and is an essential part of the global carbon cycle .Accordingly, accurate estimation of the amount of carbon dioxide fixed by terrestrial vegetation and quantitatively evaluating the carbon exchange rates are critical to understanding the underlying mechanisms of ecosystem ... Atmospheric radiative transfer codes - Wikipedia Methods. At the core of a radiative transfer model lies the radiative transfer equation that is numerically solved using a solver such as a discrete ordinate method or a Monte Carlo method.The radiative transfer equation is a monochromatic equation to calculate radiance in a single layer of the Earth's atmosphere. To calculate the radiance for a spectral region with a finite width (e.g., to ... Astrophysics authors/titles "new" - arXiv Thermal emission spectra of hot Jupiters have led to key constraints on thermal inversions (or 'stratospheres') in their atmospheres with important implications for their atmospheric processes.
